2006 Rookie Smokejumper Application Information

The Alaska Smokejumpers will be accepting applications from qualified, hard working, highly motivated, and aggressive firefighters for our 2006 Smokejumper Rookie Training Program.

The Alaska Smokejumpers are the primary initial attack force for the largest area of wildlands in the United States. The 68 Alaska Smokejumpers are called upon to provide initial and extended attack fire suppression to Alaska, Canada, and the Western United States wherever needed.

There are typically 6 to 10 positions open for rookie candidates in a given year. Approximately 200 applications are received for those positions. Selected candidates typically have a number of seasons of wildland firefighting experience, are highly recommended by their previous supervisor, and are in excellent physical condition. Historically about 40% of the candidates who begin training do not finish, generally because they cannot meet the stringent physical requirements of the rookie training program. A year-round physical fitness program is strongly encouraged for all applicants.

Selected candidates will be placed in the BLM Smokejumper Rookie Training Program for a month of intense physical, firefighting, and parachute training. Training usually begins in the third week of April at Fort Wainwright, AK. Candidates who successfully complete training will join the Alaska Smokejumpers in the formidable and rewarding effort of fire suppression in Alaska and the lower 48 states. Rookie Smokejumper positions are temporary GS-5's with work generally ending in September. Long term appointments are typically available in the second or third season as a Smokejumper.

Minimum qualifications for smokejumper rookie candidates (GS-5) are:

- 12 months of specialized experience equivalent to the GS-04 level duties; OR
- A 4-year course of study above high school leading to a bachelor's degree with either:
 - 1) A major study in forestry, range management or agriculture; OR
 - 2) A major in a subject-matter field directly related to the position; OR
 - 3) At least 24 semester hours in any combination of the following courses: forestry, agriculture, crop or plant science, range management or conservation, wildlife management, watershed management, soil science, natural resources (except marine biology and oceanography), outdoor recreation management, civil or forest engineering, or wildland fire science. No more than 6 semester hours of mathematics is creditable; OR
- A combination of education and experience that is directly related to the work of the position
